

STREET ART STROLLS HEADINGLEY

VIRGIN BOXES in the Ash Road area

Start the stroll in the Rose Garden on North Lane. Exit on the north side, turn left and follow Ash Road. Pass the two Virgin Media communication boxes painted by Anna Malcolm and Naomi Smith on the right (on the ends of Trelawn and Grimthorpe Terraces), and two boxes on the left by George Addy at the cross-roads of Ash Road and Headingley Mount. Cross Headingley Mount and continue along Ash Road, passing the box by Oliver Neilson on the left on the corner of Estcourt Avenue. (Look into Estcourt Terrace, to see the white house on the right.) At Langdale Avenue, turn left and some fifty yards down find a fine box on the left, Tyger by Dashiell Rowan (in the centre of this circuit of boxes). Return to Ash Road, and as it bends left, see on the right the box by Emily Edwards.

Continue along Ash Road. At the cross-roads with Canterbury Drive, turn right, to see a mural on your left, on the end of Langdale Terrace. Return along Canterbury Drive, for the box by Matthew Wheeler, on the right, at the Ash Road cross-roads. Continue along Canterbury Drive (you could turn left into Langdale Avenue for another visit to the Tyger). Further along on the right, on the corner of Estcourt Avenue, is a box by Becky Silveira, and then over the Avenue, there are two more boxes, by Jazz Harbord and Paul Hudson. A little further along on the left, on the corner of Headingley Avenue, is a box by Marcio Kutabiala. Finally, on Canterbury Drive, on the right, at the junction with Headingley Mount, is a box by Benjamin Craven.

Cross Headingley Mount and go forward along Derwentwater Grove. At the end, turn left up South Parade, and then turn right into Derwentwater Terrace, where there is a box by Kobey Taylor on the north side. Continue up the Terrace (note the owl mural on the right) to the junction with Ash Road, and turn right to return to the Rose Garden.
